California Living History Church-Service Missionaries

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints

What is California Living History?

The Church-service Missionary Department is recruiting additional Church-service Missionaries to raise public awareness in California. The purpose is to share the impactful role pioneers of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints played in securing California statehood and developing towns and major trails in the early history of the State. There are now California Living History Church-service Missionaries throughout California, ages 18 and up, serving from their homes. The opportunities continue to grow, and more Church-service Missionaries are needed!

What do Church-service Missionaries do in California Living History?

Our mission is to share with others the role early Church pioneers played in shaping and influencing early California history. We educate elementary students in classroom settings and on historical park field trips and we educate the general public in historical event and historical site settings. Many surveys have shown that people are more likely to have a favorable attitude about the Church if they have known a member. Our vision is to accomplish this in a fun and enjoyable way that allows us to build bridges of friendship and understanding.
